Data Center Efficiency

Xcel Energy brings you Data Center Efficiency, a program that can help you reduce energy costs, whether you are retrofitting an existing data center, or building one from scratch. A Data Center Efficiency study will offer guidance on how you can make your data center more energy efficient from virtualization and server choices, to layout, cooling and beyond.

In order to help you select a provider, Xcel Energy asked several providers to submit information regarding their qualifications and work to determine their ability to provide holistic Data Center Efficiency studies. The following providers have submitted responses to Xcel Energy's Request for Information and have been pre-screened by Xcel Energy to provide Data Center Efficiency studies.

PLEASE NOTE: Pre-approval is required for all Data Center Efficiency studies and projects. All providers must submit their qualifications to Xcel Energy in order to receive pre-approval. Each study provider is responsible for subcontracting when additional skill sets are needed, for example for engineering and/or IT. Only the approved contact may submit studies to the account manager.
